

“Hey look at him, he is Chris Wong!” “Oh I know him! He failed all the tests in Exam 1.” Two students in the classroom talked about a famous student at school, Chris Wong, who was walking through the corridor.

Chris Wong was the bottom of his class and perhaps form, or maybe even the whole school. He loved science since the first time he had heard about it, but he was not good at studying – actually, he was bad at studying any subject.

It was nearly the UT, and Chris didn't even care. He didn't do any revision, as it was useless for him. He failed in test no matter what he did. “Hi, Chris Wong!” said someone in front of him, “May I have a talk with you, after school?” “Mr Mak!” Chris grinned, “Sure! Then let's meet in the laboratory!”

There was a little secret in Chris' heart. He would like to become a successful teacher in the future who teaches science. At the first sight of him seeing Mr Mak he admired him, as Mr Mak did his dream job. However, Chris was not brave enough to tell anyone. He was afraid of being teased by his classmates.

“Here I am!” Chris appeared in the laboratory upstairs on time. Mr Mak had arrived earlier than Chris and had everything prepared, “I heard from Tom that you loved science, right?” Chris was then delighted and told Mr Mak about his dream, in detail.

“You can always come to find me if you want, I'm always in this laboratory.” Chris was then extremely surprised and asked why, “It seems you really need someone to chat with.” Chris didn't know what to say next, the laboratory then became quiet. Let me tell you a secret, Chris,” Mr Mak whispered, “I was once as lazy as you when I was in primary school.”

“What!?” Chris was shocked and therefore shouted out, “No, it's impossible! You're now a successful teacher!” “Because I worked very hard at that time, very very very hard, which is what you should be doing now.” Mr Mak kept sharing about his life before, and what he did to improve his exam marks.

“The highest mark in class is Chris Wong! He scored more than 90% in every subject!” Chris' class teacher told everyone in the classroom. Chris was so happy that he even cried. “Thanks Mr Mak,” he smiled, “I'll become a teacher, definitely!”